

Writers to the Rescue

Anthony Browne needs your help.

Not enough people are buying or borrowing his books...

In order to help, we need to persuade libraries & shops to stock his books as well as encouraging individuals to get their hands on them!

By writing our own stories in the style of Browne, we will be better prepared to convince people of how good a writer he is.

The more information we know about Anthony Browne, the better our own books will be.

Write an author study about Anthony Browne in any style you wish. You need to research then write about his range of books, his background, what people have said about his books, his artistic style...

You may present your study as a poster, leaflet, infographic, written document, factfile, passport, CV, historical text or any other that is suitable. You can handwrite it or complete it digitally.

Due in no later than Friday 18th October
